Georgetown University Law Center
LL.M.
London Option

Students that wish to further their international legal education during the LL.M. at Georgetown have the option of spending their second semester in London at the Center for Transnational Legal Studies.

Georgetown will select up to seven (7) students to participate in this program. Only those students studying in the General Studies, International Legal Studies or Individualized Study programs will be considered for admission.

In order to apply please fill out a copy of this form and a one page explanation as to why you would like to participate in the London Option. Please submit these documents along with your complete application materials. If you have already submitted your application materials you may also send the form and explanation separately via email to llmadmis@law.georgetown.edu.

Name: __________________________________________________________

Date of Birth (DD/MM/YYYY): _______________________

LSAC Account #: ________________________________

LL.M. Program: ________________________________

Signature: ___________________________________________ Date: _______________________

Please note that for purposes of qualifying to sit for the New York Bar Exam foreign trained LL.M. students participating in the London Option will not fulfill the U.S. coursework requirement under rule 520.6 of the Rules of the Court of The New York State Board of Law Examiners.