

O'Neill Institute

for National and Global Health Law

Georgetown Law • Georgetown Nursing & Health Studies

Cordially invites you to

Should the Private Sector Have a Role in Public Health? Reflections on the New Global Architecture in Health

with

DR. JEFFREY L. STURCHIO

VISITING SCHOLAR AT THE INSTITUTE OF APPLIED ECONOMICS, GLOBAL HEALTH AND THE STUDY OF BUSINESS ENTERPRISE AT JOHNS HOPKINS
SENIOR PARTNER AT RABIN MARTIN

Jeffrey L. Sturchio is senior partner at Rabin Martin, a leading global consultancy working at the crossroads of health, and former President & CEO of the Global Health Council, the world's largest membership alliance of public health organizations and professionals. Before joining the Council, Dr. Sturchio was vice president of Corporate Responsibility at Merck & Co. Inc., managing a portfolio of activities including Merck's corporate philanthropy, the Merck Institute for Science Education, the Merck Childhood Asthma Network, global health partnerships, global HIV/AIDS access programs, corporate responsibility reporting and the Merck Archives. He also served as President of The Merck Company Foundation and Chairman of the Corporate Council on Africa, whose 150 member companies represent some 85 per cent of total U.S. private sector investment in Africa. Since 2000, Dr. Sturchio was centrally involved in Merck's participation in the UN/Industry Accelerating Access Initiative to help improve HIV/AIDS care and treatment in the developing world. He was a member of the board of the African Comprehensive HIV/AIDS Partnerships in Botswana and a member of the private sector delegation to the Board of the Global Fund to Fight AIDS, TB and Malaria.

He is also currently a visiting scholar at the Institute for Applied Economics, Global Health and the Study of Business Enterprise at The Johns Hopkins University, a Senior Associate of the Global Health Policy Center at the Center for Strategic and International Studies, a Fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, and a member of the Council on Foreign Relations. Dr. Sturchio received an A.B. in history from Princeton University and a Ph.D. in the history & sociology of science from the University of Pennsylvania. His previous positions include the AT&T Archives, the Beckman Center for the History of Chemistry at the University of Pennsylvania, Rutgers University, and the New Jersey Institute of Technology. He has also been a Postdoctoral Fellow and Senior Fellow at the Smithsonian Institution and a Visiting Fellow at the London School of Economics. Dr. Sturchio has published extensively on public-private partnerships in global health.

Monday, October 3, 2011

1:20 – 3:20 PM

Georgetown University Law Center
Eric E. Hotung Building, Room 2001
600 New Jersey Ave. NW
Washington, DC 20001