Welcome Remarks from Faculty Director, Lawrence O. Gostin

Dear Colleagues,

Welcome to the O'Neill Institute for National and Global Health Law's quarterly newsletter. The newsletter is meant to update you on current events at the O'Neill Institute, including highlights from our robust research program, graduate degree programs, fellowship program, and recent institute scholarship on pressing issues in health law and policy.

The O'Neill Institute newsletter serves as a forum for members of our community to share their thoughts and ideas, as well as a resource for our readers. Thank you for your support of the O'Neill Institute and best wishes.

Karen Sokol was a fellow at the O'Neill Institute from 2007-2008. She is currently an Assistant Professor of Law at Loyola University New Orleans College of Law. Her research interests include constitutional law, torts, law and science, health law, and the role of the legal system in advancing health equity. She has written over 20 articles on topics such as health law, health policy, and bioethics. She has also written extensively on issues related to tobacco control and the environment. Sokol has published in a number of journals, including Tufts Journal of Health Law and Policy, Journal of Law, Medicine, and Ethics, and the Journal of Health and Perez. Sokol is a member of the American Bar Association, the American Society for Bioethics and Humanities, and the American Society for Law, Medicine, and Ethics. She is also a member of the Board of Directors of the Healthy Kids, Healthy Futures, a non-profit organization that works to promote healthy eating and active living for children.

Karen Sokol

Lawrence O. Gostin

Faculty Director

Karen Sokol was a fellow at the O'Neill Institute from 2007-2008. She is currently an Assistant Professor of Law at Loyola University New Orleans College of Law. Her research interests include constitutional law, torts, law and science, health law, and the role of the legal system in advancing health equity. She has written over 20 articles on topics such as health law, health policy, and bioethics. She has also written extensively on issues related to tobacco control and the environment. Sokol has published in a number of journals, including Tufts Journal of Health Law and Policy, Journal of Law, Medicine, and Ethics, and the Journal of Health and Perez. Sokol is a member of the American Bar Association, the American Society for Bioethics and Humanities, and the American Society for Law, Medicine, and Ethics. She is also a member of the Board of Directors of the Healthy Kids, Healthy Futures, a non-profit organization that works to promote healthy eating and active living for children.

Karen Sokol

Lawrence O. Gostin

Faculty Director

Karen Sokol was a fellow at the O'Neill Institute from 2007-2008. She is currently an Assistant Professor of Law at Loyola University New Orleans College of Law. Her research interests include constitutional law, torts, law and science, health law, and the role of the legal system in advancing health equity. She has written over 20 articles on topics such as health law, health policy, and bioethics. She has also written extensively on issues related to tobacco control and the environment. Sokol has published in a number of journals, including Tufts Journal of Health Law and Policy, Journal of Law, Medicine, and Ethics, and the Journal of Health and Perez. Sokol is a member of the American Bar Association, the American Society for Bioethics and Humanities, and the American Society for Law, Medicine, and Ethics. She is also a member of the Board of Directors of the Healthy Kids, Healthy Futures, a non-profit organization that works to promote healthy eating and active living for children.

Karen Sokol

Lawrence O. Gostin

Faculty Director

Karen Sokol was a fellow at the O'Neill Institute from 2007-2008. She is currently an Assistant Professor of Law at Loyola University New Orleans College of Law. Her research interests include constitutional law, torts, law and science, health law, and the role of the legal system in advancing health equity. She has written over 20 articles on topics such as health law, health policy, and bioethics. She has also written extensively on issues related to tobacco control and the environment. Sokol has published in a number of journals, including Tufts Journal of Health Law and Policy, Journal of Law, Medicine, and Ethics, and the Journal of Health and Perez. Sokol is a member of the American Bar Association, the American Society for Bioethics and Humanities, and the American Society for Law, Medicine, and Ethics. She is also a member of the Board of Directors of the Healthy Kids, Healthy Futures, a non-profit organization that works to promote healthy eating and active living for children.

Karen Sokol

Lawrence O. Gostin

Faculty Director

Karen Sokol was a fellow at the O'Neill Institute from 2007-2008. She is currently an Assistant Professor of Law at Loyola University New Orleans College of Law. Her research interests include constitutional law, torts, law and science, health law, and the role of the legal system in advancing health equity. She has written over 20 articles on topics such as health law, health policy, and bioethics. She has also written extensively on issues related to tobacco control and the environment. Sokol has published in a number of journals, including Tufts Journal of Health Law and Policy, Journal of Law, Medicine, and Ethics, and the Journal of Health and Perez. Sokol is a member of the American Bar Association, the American Society for Bioethics and Humanities, and the American Society for Law, Medicine, and Ethics. She is also a member of the Board of Directors of the Healthy Kids, Healthy Futures, a non-profit organization that works to promote healthy eating and active living for children.

Karen Sokol

Lawrence O. Gostin

Faculty Director

Karen Sokol was a fellow at the O'Neill Institute from 2007-2008. She is currently an Assistant Professor of Law at Loyola University New Orleans College of Law. Her research interests include constitutional law, torts, law and science, health law, and the role of the legal system in advancing health equity. She has written over 20 articles on topics such as health law, health policy, and bioethics. She has also written extensively on issues related to tobacco control and the environment. Sokol has published in a number of journals, including Tufts Journal of Health Law and Policy, Journal of Law, Medicine, and Ethics, and the Journal of Health and Perez. Sokol is a member of the American Bar Association, the American Society for Bioethics and Humanities, and the American Society for Law, Medicine, and Ethics. She is also a member of the Board of Directors of the Healthy Kids, Healthy Futures, a non-profit organization that works to promote healthy eating and active living for children.

Karen Sokol

Lawrence O. Gostin

Faculty Director

Karen Sokol was a fellow at the O'Neill Institute from 2007-2008. She is currently an Assistant Professor of Law at Loyola University New Orleans College of Law. Her research interests include constitutional law, torts, law and science, health law, and the role of the legal system in advancing health equity. She has written over 20 articles on topics such as health law, health policy, and bioethics. She has also written extensively on issues related to tobacco control and the environment. Sokol has published in a number of journals, including Tufts Journal of Health Law and Policy, Journal of Law, Medicine, and Ethics, and the Journal of Health and Perez. Sokol is a member of the American Bar Association, the American Society for Bioethics and Humanities, and the American Society for Law, Medicine, and Ethics. She is also a member of the Board of Directors of the Healthy Kids, Healthy Futures, a non-profit organization that works to promote healthy eating and active living for children.