

Georgetown Law Journal's 54th Annual Review of Criminal Procedure

Summer Research Assistant Position

The Georgetown Law Journal's Annual Review of Criminal Procedure (ARCP) seeks research assistants for summer 2024. The ARCP is one of the leading authorities on federal criminal procedure and is widely used by federal prosecutors, public defenders, judges, and pro se litigants in federal prisons. Research assistants will perform substantive legal research under the guidance and mentorship of Georgetown Law Journal editors.

Benefits

Compensation: RAs are paid and still eligible for GULC's 1L and 2L public interest grants.

Educational Opportunity: RAs refine important legal research and writing skills and actively engage with criminal constitutional law cases.

Flexibility: RAs can set their own work schedule and work 10 hours/week from anywhere with an Internet connection.

Reference: RAs may obtain a reference from the ARCP Editor-in-Chief upon request.

Qualifications

Self Starter: Strong organizational skills and attention to detail.

Research: Experience using legal databases including Westlaw and LexisNexis and strong research skills.

Strong Writer: Ability to synthesize complex legal holdings into brief and accurate parentheticals.

Legal Skills: Ability to distinguish legal holdings from dicta in criminal case law.

Passion: Interest in criminal procedure, the mission of the ARCP, and getting resources for defendants without them.

Positions will be filled
on a rolling basis—please complete the application available on our website at*:
bit.ly/ARCPRA

*this link is case sensitive!