

Letter from the Editor

Dear Reader:

The Georgetown Journal of Law & Public Policy presents the final issue of Volume 22. This Special Issue features the Journal's annual symposium with the Georgetown Institute for the Study of Markets & Ethics. This year's symposium explores the Ethics of University Governance. The issue also includes a comment from Paul J. Larkin and three student notes.

Once again, I would like to sincerely thank the Editorial Board and Staff Editors of the Georgetown Journal of Law & Public Policy for their hard work. I would also like to thank the Georgetown Institute for the Study of Markets & Ethics for their partnership. And, on behalf of everyone who has worked on Volume 22's Special Issue of the Georgetown Journal of Law & Public Policy, I would like to thank our readers. Serving as the Journal's Editor-in-Chief has been an honor, but my role has been small compared to those of the Journal's Editorial Board, Staff Editors, partners, and readers. In addition to thanking everyone on behalf of the Journal, I would like to express my appreciation personally.

Sincerely,

Jerry Blake Blevins
Editor-in-Chief, Volume 22
