GRE FAQs

1. Will I be required to submit a CAS report if I only take the GRE?

Yes. We require a CAS report from all applicants.

2. How will Georgetown Law evaluate applications that include both a GRE score and an LSAT score?

If you submit a GRE and an LSAT score, we will consider both scores.

3. How should I submit my GRE scores to Georgetown Law?

We only accept official GRE score reports from ETS. Please indicate Georgetown Law as a recipient of your test scores. For more information on submitting official score reports, please visit the ETS website (ets.org).

4. What is Georgetown Law's GRE school code?

Our school code is 2329.

5. What is the oldest score that you will accept?

We accept GRE scores that are less than five years old.

6. If I take both the GRE and the LSAT, am I required to submit my GRE scores to Georgetown Law?

No, you are not required to submit your GRE score. You may submit only your LSAT score if you prefer.

7. If I take both the GRE and the LSAT, will my LSAT scores be sent to Georgetown Law?

Yes. Because a CAS report is required of all applicants, Georgetown Law automatically will receive all valid LSAT scores.

8. If I submit only a GRE score, will my application be evaluated the same way as someone who submitted only an LSAT score?

Yes. The Admissions Committee has no preference for the LSAT or the GRE and will accept either test score. We consider all applications holistically and will evaluate applications similarly regardless of test type.

9. Does it help my chances of admission if I submit both an LSAT and a GRE score?

No. You should prepare for and take the test that you feel best indicates your academic ability. The Admissions Committee does not require multiple test scores and does not have a preference for either test.

10. Is more consideration placed on the verbal, the quantitative, or the writing section of the GRE?

The Admissions Committee considers all three GRE sections and the applicant's total score.

11. How important are test scores in the Admissions process?

We consider all application materials when evaluating an applicant. Admissions at Georgetown Law is a holistic process and far more than a numbers game. We use test scores to help us evaluate whether an applicant and Georgetown Law are a good match, but the LSAT and the GRE are one of many factors considered in the broader context of a completed application.

12. How is my CAS report transmitted to Georgetown Law without an LSAT score?

If you are applying without an LSAT score, we will retrieve your CAS report from LSAC after we receive your official GRE score report from ETS. Please note that this retrieval may take several business days.
